

Във филмите сме виждали хора, които пътуват във времето.

Това обаче може да не е толкова далеч от истината, колкото си мислим. Най-общо казано, „пъту

Calatoria in viitor a lui Hakan Nordkvist Håkan Nordkvist Has Visited the Future

A person in Sweden claims to have time travelled to the future. It all happened on the afternoon the 30th of August 2006. It was a beautiful day and I was on my way home from a job in Färjestaden. When I got home, I found water on the kitchen floor. Somehow there was a leak. I got my tools and opened up the doors to the sink. And started to work. When I reached in to examine the pipes, they seemed to be further in than I remembered. I had to crawl inside the cabinet, and as I did so, I discovered that it just continued. So I kept on crawling further and further into the cabinet. In the end of the tunnel I saw a light, and when I got there, I realized I was in the future. I meet myself as 72 years old, the year was 2042. I did a lot of tests on him to see if he was really me. And the strange thing is that he knew everything about me. Where I hid my secret stuff when I was in first grade, and what the score was in the soccer match against Växjö Norra in the summer of '88. He knew it all. We even had the same tattoo, although he's was a little faded. He told me some of the stuff that will happen, but not so much. And I promised not to tell anyone. I made a film with my mobile phone. Unfortunately the quality is not the best. But it's what I have got. Actually I don't care if people thinks I am a liar. I know I'm not. I met myself in the future, and I was fine. That's all I know. TIME TRAVELER SKIPS TOWN!

NEW YORK — Self-proclaimed time traveler Andrew Carlissin — the enigmatic Wall Street whiz jailed on insider-trading charges — has vanished without a trace!

The mystery man, who claimed to be a visitor from the year 2256, jumped bail before a scheduled court hearing on April 3 and hasn't been seen since, officials say, despite an intense manhunt by federal lawmen.

"It's like he disappeared off the face of the Earth," declares a law-enforcement source. "No one can find him. Some people are speculating that he might have been helped by his time machine."

His assets frozen, Carlissin languished in jail for over a month as investigators repeatedly grilled him, hoping he'd eventually break and turn in his accomplices.

Then on March 28, an unidentified benefactor paid $1 million to bail Carlissin out.
